HOW TO FIND BOOKS IN THIS BULLETIN

The bulletin is divided into three parts in this order: 1, class list; 2, author list; 3, subject index.

For a specific subject look in the subject index. This is not a general index to the system of classification but only to such subjects as are included in this number of the bulletin. The number following each topic refers not to the page, but to the subject number in the left margin of the class list, which is arranged in simple numerical order. Under each subject number in the class list are all books on that subject added during the year. Only the upper line is the subject number. The letters and figures on the second line are the book number distinguishing that book from others on the same subject. Both lines must be copied in calling for the book.

For a specific book look in the alphabetic author list in the middle of the bulletin for the authors' surname, or, if the book is anonymous, for the first word of the title, disregarding initial articles.

Plan of classification

The field of knowledge is divided into nine main classes, and these are numbered by the digits, 1 to 9. Cyclopedias, periodicals, etc., so general in character as to belong to no one of these classes, are marked naught, and form a tenth class. Each class is similarly separated into nine divisions, general works belonging to no division having naught in place of the division number. Divisions are similarly divided into nine sections, and the process is repeated as often as necessary. Thus 512 means Class 5 (Natural Science), Division 1 (Mathematics), Section 2 (Algebra), and every Algebra is numbered 512.

Since each subject has a definite number it follows that all books on any subject must stand together. The titles of books in this bulletin, as well as the books on the library shelves, are arranged in the simple numerical order of their class numbers which are all decimals. The summary of the 100 divisions printed on the next page shows the general arrangement of the subjects. For the number of any special subject look in the subject index at the end of the bulletin. This contains the names of all topics included in this bulletin with their proper class numbers.
